

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

"Hutton Communications expands its presence in the broadband wireless business with the acquisition of Electro-Comm Distributing"

Carrollton, TX, August 31, 2006/ Hutton Communications Inc., a leading distributor for wireless broadband and related products, announced the acquisition of Electro-Comm Distributing. The terms of the agreement were not disclosed but Electro-Comm will run as a separate division of Hutton and will be managed and operated by the existing management team and employees.

John Walker, Hutton's president and CEO, communicated: "We believe that the purchase of Electro-Comm will strengthen our position in this market and help us to serve our collective customers with expanded products and services. In addition, the purchase of Electro-Comm will strengthen our position with our current suppliers while expanding our relationship with new suppliers like Motorola and others. Equally important, we are retaining excellent management with Mike Brownson, President, Mark Brownson, Vice President of Operations and their team of professionals."

Mike Brownson, President of Electro-Comm, states "I'm very excited about the upside potential of joining efforts with Hutton. I see tremendous benefits for Electro-Comm, Hutton and our customers. The combined strength of our organizations will make for a very capable and resourceful supplier to the wireless industry. We'll have the fast and friendly approach that Electro-Comm is famous for along with the increased resources of the Hutton organization, a winning combination."

Hutton Communications Inc., established in 1967, is a leading distributor of wireless communications products including site infrastructure, broadband and related networking components. Hutton provides products and services from leading wireless manufacturers to wireless carriers, tower contractors, Value Added Resellers and government agencies through a network of strategic warehouses located throughout North America.
